PATRICK CORRADO / COMPRESSIONI

Introducing a new form of 3-Dimensional Painting

MADE IN ITALY

About the Work: Corrado constructs and deconstructs photographic images, symbols, colors and typography from the worlds of fashion, cinema cartoons, computers, nature and music - creating a fresh visual landscape. His assemblages are at once subliminal and explosive, bound to delight. These large scale works are precise and paradoxical, like Robert Rauschenberg's neo-Dadaist, "Silkscreen Paintings." His work features subtle - almost hidden - iconic portraits of Grace Kelly, Kate Moss, and David Bowie.

The works are poetic - with overtones of Botticelli and Michelangelo - while graphic and conceptual - reminiscent of Warhol. Corrado offers an entirely new form of 3-Dimensional Painting, which he calls "Compressioni" His unique juxtaposition of images is marked by consistent amplitude modulations, creating a symphony of color and texture. He compels the viewer with freshly futuristic landscapes of image and form. Corrado's works are an interplay of subject and sequence, creating a new genre of pop icon: recognizable, embraceable and completely alluring...

About the Artist: The artist Patrick Corrado, from Bergamo, Italy was born in 1971. He studied at Fantoni Academy of Fine Arts, where he began his experimentation and research into the compositional fragmentation of photographic images. Corrado's artistic journey includes commissions by Alessi for projects in Helsinki, Oslo and Stockholm and for Moët & Chandon for a project entitled: "Moët à la Modé."

In 2009, Patrick was selected for his collection, "Parallel Worlds," for the 52nd edition of the Venice Biennale. Patrick's work has been featured in Arte, a leading international arts magazine and at the Ferrari Gallery in Vevey, Switzerland, with write-ups in Paris Match. Patrick's work for the project, "100 Days for 100 Curators," was exhibited at the Saatchi Gallery in London.

Artra Worldwide is enthusiastic to represent Patrick Corrado exclusively in the U.S.
International Representation by Tallulah Studio, Milan, Italy
